Dr. Gatewood has over 20 years of experience working toward the development and licensure of veterinary vaccines. She graduated from Tuskegee University's College of Veterinary Medicine in 1986 and completed a Master's Degree in Veterinary Microbiology and Immunology at Kansas State University in 1991. After completing her studies, she worked briefly at the National Veterinary Services Laboratories in a post doctorate position, and then joined Diamond Animal Health where she served as Manager of Research and Development working on the development of a line of cattle vaccines. She later moved into Regulatory Affairs at Diamond to manage new product licensure. She rejoined USDA/APHIS in 1998, where she was a Senior Staff Reviewer at the Center for Veterinary Biologics until 2000, when she was named Section Leader for the Virology Section in the Licensing and Policy Development unit. She left the CVB in 2013 to found EDGE Consulting, where she is currently President and Chief Operating Officer. EDGE consultants provide regulatory support and guidance to researchers and commercial entities engaged in veterinary vaccine research and licensing.
